

Restore the Beauty of Natural Stone and Tile

TODAY, MORE THAN EVER BEFORE, homeowners are choosing natural stone for a variety of uses in their homes. Its beauty and durability make it the material of choice for countertops, tub decks, shower surrounds, and flooring. Because of this growing trend, a need has developed for its specialized care and restoration.

The restoration and care of natural stone is a complex process requiring the skills and knowledge of true stone craftsmen. Natural stone may have adverse reactions to certain cleaning chemicals and processes. Care must be taken in finding and using the products and equipment essential to restoring and maintaining its beauty. Restoration experts can evaluate the condition of your natural stone and tile and determine the best methods to restore its original brilliance.

Ceramic tile and natural stone, such as travertine, limestone and granite, can be cleaned and restored by stripping and de-greasing, returning it to an almost-new condition. Grout can also be professionally cleaned, sealed, or color-changed during the restoration process. Saltillo or Mexican tiles can be stained and color-enhanced to blend or better coordinate with home furnishings or wall colors. With proper techniques, replacement and tile repairs can be successfully blended to match the original flooring.
